MANCHESTER, NH, population 109,000, is the largest city in northern New England. The historic textile mills along the Merrimack River now provide space for medical and high-tech research companies, small businesses, restaurants, and shops. The waterfront park hosts several festivals each year.

Manchester is a modern educational center. Several of New Hampshire and New England's premier colleges and universities have campuses within city limits.

There are a number of area human service and health care agencies from which to choose. Tenants are active in a number of statewide groups that support the needs of individuals with disabilities.
